

Word of the Week Competition!

To celebrate Word of the Week's first birthday, the English Profile team is inviting you to enter our first ever 'Word of the Week Competition'. The competition is open to all non-native speakers, whether you are a student, teacher, researcher or writer. Simply make up a story using as many of the words from the list below as possible, and we will select one lucky winner. The winning story will be published on the English Profile website and its creator will be awarded a prize in honour of their efforts. Don't forget you can view each Word of the Week entry by visiting the English Profile website and clicking on the Word of the Week icon. If you really want to test yourself, why don't you try using more than one sense of a word too!

Entries must be sent to englishprofile@cambridge.org by Monday 31 January 2011.
(max. 250 words)

Good luck!

account, actually, agree, all, any, as, break, by, case, catch, control, cool, else, face, fine, get, good, high, hopefully, idea, if, into, look, make, mean, might, mind, moment, on, own, pass, point, put, quite, rather, really, run, seem, stage, still, strike, thing, time, turn, unbelievable, undoubtedly, unfair, variety, way, while, yet.

Please provide us with the following information when submitting your story:

- Your email address
- Your name
- Your age
- Your first language
- Are you a Learner/Researcher/Teacher/Other? (please specify)

Thank you.